they gave him to abide by the law and "shell out."

In the death of Gov. Johnson of Wisconsin, the nation lost one of its greatest men. Perhaps no democrat had a stronger hold on the people enjoying as he did, the state for governor that gave Roosevelt a majority of 161,000, he would probably have been the next democratic nominee for president. The whole country feels its loss.

State Auditor Gordon knows a thing or two himself and Governor Hadley's appointee for state bank examiner and his appointee for hotel bed-sheets inspector has found this fact out no doubt. It seems that when the legislature passed the bills creating the office of bank examiner and nine-foot hotel bed-sheets inspector and placed the appointing power for these two offices in the hands of the governor, this worthy immediately appointed two defeated republicans for state offices to these positions and they have entered upon their duties and when the first month's pay was due the state auditor refused to audit the accounts on the grounds that while the legislature had created these offices they had failed to make provision for paying the men appointed to these offices to the governor and it now looks like they were in the hole; but then republicans are so patriotic these two appointees will probably serve without pay, in the pig's valise. La Follette Hits Back At Taft

A Madison Wis., telegram says: United States Senator La Follette does not propose to be read out of the republican party by President Taft or any other man. This is his reply to the president's Wisconsin (Minn.) speech on the tariff in which Taft scolded the republican "insurgents" for their action on the Payne Aldrich bill.

The reply is contained in an editorial in last week's issue of La Follette's weekly magazine. "The statement of the president was featured in the press of the country as an attempt to read out of the party those republican senators and representatives who voted against the tariff bill," says La Follette. "This cannot be done. No man shall have the power to read a representative out of his party. That power rests with the voters who selected him as their party representative. No man even the president of the United States decide for the American people whether or not the tariff law is genuine or counterfeit. He cannot decide that even for the republican party. The people have the divine right of deciding that question for themselves. They will do so in their own way, at their own time and upon the facts."

And there are others of the good persuasion who are thinking it about time for the people to take a hand in the law-making department of this country.

The Gait We Are Going

The world moves rapidly, in these times, says the Boston Transcript, and within a few days has passed quite a series of records and caught up with a number of novelties:

Orville Wright made the highest aeroplane flight, 765 feet.

A White Star liner, steaming sixteen knots an hour, stopped, loaded and reloaded in twenty minutes a seaman who had fallen overboard in midocean.

On a bare plot of ground in St. Louis a $1300 cottage was "completed" in eight and a half hours, sixty-one mechanics being employed.

"The first aerial Masonic lodge" was formed in a Massachusetts balloon floating at an elevation of some 7,000 feet.

A New York coroner's physician performed an autopsy upon an armless man whose kidneys had been practically nonexistent from birth, and whose heart had for fifteen years been eaten by a cancer, yet who died of old age.

New Jersey farmers experienced a chicken thief who travels in an automobile and sends a collie dog to rob the coasts and fetch out the poultry without killing.

Also in New Jersey, four trees yielded eight bushels of plums.

Does the reader protest that these occurrences have no natural sequence or causal relation? Let him remember that "it is not all kinds of people—and events—that make a world."

An Old Indictment.
Following is a form of an indictment of more than a century ago in the Louisiana Territory, says the Caruthersville Democrat, as given in the Missouri Historical Review: "That one James Davis, late of the District of St. Charles, in the Territory of Louisiana, Laborer, not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved and seduced by the instigation of the devil, on the 13 day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and four (1804), at a place called Femme Osage, in the said district of St. Charles, with force of arms, in and upon William Hays, in the peace of God and the United States, then and there, Feloniously, wittily and with malice aforethought, did make an assault, and that the said James Davis, with a certain rifle gun, four feet long, and of the value of $5, then and there loaded and charged with gunpowder and one leaden bullet, with said rifle gun the said James Davis, then and there in his hands had and held, fired and killed William Hays."

FASHION item: Purple in all its expensive hues is the fashion tip for women this winter. The husbands will continue to wear long faces and plain black.

In Missouri wholesale whiskey dealers have determined to resist the state tax levied by the last legislature. Its none of our funeral, but we would like to know something more about the "pledges" Gov. Hadley says
